

Andrew Tucker

MARLA

Partner, Residential

07836 501753
andrew.tucker@bidwells.co.uk

Andrew has sold properties for all walks of life from television personalities to world-class scientists – including Stephen Hawking!

He receives fantastic feedback from his clients for his continuous communication. He's also very honest; it's easy to put a property on the market, but with Andrew's experience, he'll tell you if there are ways you can maximise its value.

His naturally approachable character has led to him make genuine friends with many of his clients throughout his 15 years at Bidwells. He'll talk to anyone, and he really listens until he fully understands what you want – every detail. Because getting it right with the place you call home is so important.

As a family man who loves the outdoors, Andrew enjoys walks around Cambridge's lush green spaces and is proud of both the city's historic period homes and emerging neighbourhoods.

His portfolio clients include some of Cambridge's most esteemed colleges. With experience of growing a lettings portfolio in his early career, Andrew understands investment returns and often provides market commentary for research and articles, keeping abreast of national projects like the Oxford to Cambridge Arc and greener homes initiatives.

Key relevant project experience

Cambridge colleges – residential valuations

Carries out all the residential valuations for all the college valuations that the fund management team conducts annually (during the summer recess).

Cambridge colleges – main point of contact

Main point of contact for all Cambridge college Bursars in terms of selling residential land.

4 Clarkson Close, Cambridge

Two properties sold at a guide of £2.95m and which sold for £3.2m.

College house

Property sold off-market with a guide price of £950,000 and which sold for £1.07m.

Investor advice

Provided advice to 300+ investors on suitable rentable properties to purchase in and around Cambridge.

“Andrew gave me advice and guidance when I needed it and kept me informed throughout. I have no hesitation in recommending Bidwells.”

John Davison