

Robin Means

RICS

Senior Project Manager, Building Consultancy

07976 591079

robin.means@bidwells.co.uk

Never one to watch the clock, Robin always puts his clients first and works hard to get the job done - and well.

Striving for the best solutions for your unique projects, Robin is committed - even when that meant travelling to Switzerland for a day to view what some CLT trees looked and felt like for Cambridge central mosque.

Unlike a bull in a china shop, Robin is very methodical in his approach. He likes processes and steps, meaning you can trust your project is as compliant and as well thought out as possible. Getting under the skin of each project and into the deep detail is what makes him tick.

Always valuing the importance of good business relationships, he is keen to understand not only what you need but what is it is you really want. Robin's inquisitive nature and calm exterior doesn't just get the best of you, but your entire project team.

Loving the variety of his job from developing Europe's first eco-friendly purpose-built mosque within Cambridge city, laboratories at Cambridge Science Park and a new prep independent school in Watford, Robin is constantly building his knowledge and network.

Key relevant project experience

Unit 1 and 2 Cambridge Science Park

New build and construction were finished in April. A total of 210,000 sq ft.

Cambridge Mosque

Aldenham School

A new prep school which was finished in April.

“Throughout the build phase, Bidwells remained engaged, skilfully leading project team meetings to keep on track and to budget. When issues arose, they dealt with them in a timely manner and sought solutions collegiately - this has been invaluable”

Karl Mahon, Bursar and Clerk to the Governors,
The Aldenham Foundation