hive

creativity

As well as its world renowned life sciences and technology sectors, Cambridge has a thriving community of creative businesses: architects, designers, makers, artists, publishers, media, marketing, IT and software developers. Hope Street Yard provides a home for these businesses in beautifully designed, spaces with the highest sustainability credentials.

The area around Hope Street Yard is full of creative energy with a distinctively different vibe to the city centre. Independent shops, international markets, bars, cafes and restaurants form the most culturally vibrant neighbourhood in Cambridge.

About Camel Projects

Camel is a property investment company which thinks a little differently about property. We only look to work with properties and sites that are a little bit unusual, that are cut from a different cloth.

Camel breathes new life into sites, improving their space and reputation, and re-positioning them in the marketplace to attract the sharpest, most creative companies and individuals in Cambridge and beyond.

We care about community, trust and offering something that's above and beyond the rest of the market. These are a function of our culture, but the physical space we own, develop and manage will also express these values.
