Adam is a partner within Bidwells' building surveying team and has almost 20 years' experience across multiple sectors including heritage, office, education, and industrial.

In addition to managing and administering projects, he utilises his technical skillset gained from carrying out instructions such as condition surveys, defect diagnosis, licences to alter and dilapidations.

Nearly two decades into a diverse career, Adam has had the opportunity to inspect hundreds of structures ranging from warehouses in Brazil to a flooded second world war bunker under a school, in North London.

Currently he works in the Oxford office where he manages a team of building surveyors.
